

NAME DROP: HACAMERI

THE CAMERI THEATRE OF TEL AVIV

Photo: Isaiah Fainberg

Devised and Directed by Jason Danino Holt

Name Drop: Hacameri is an event that examines the moments in which music becomes the soundtrack of our lives. Or is music just an excuse? Six performers with a cache of defining moments tied inexorably, almost involuntarily, to music, attempt to bring into words the connection between the wound and its tune – whether that tune is Nina Simone, Charlie Megira, techno, or the fantasy of becoming a musical theatre soloist... Love and disappointment, death and separation, sex and personal crusades – all of our lives have soundtracks. Unique, singular, burned into our psyches, ungoverned and unequivocal. The journey of Name Drop is a verbalization of life – intimate, painful – through the music that has always been there, that suddenly pops up, that will always take us back. Like a scent from our childhood, like mother's cooking... Name Drop: Hacameri is an unusual move in the established repertoire theatre, that has adapted and re-produced a show that was born in fringe theatre.

Jason Danino Holt is an interdisciplinary artist known for his roles as a theatre maker, writer, visual artist, teacher, and artistic director. In 2019, after a decade as an independent theatre maker, he formalized his work into a theatre company, expanding its reach both nationally and internationally. He is also the co-artistic director and founder of Habait Theatre in Jaffa. Jason's projects span various artistic mediums, consistently exploring new forms of expression. His signature style combines autobiography with fiction, embracing diversity in the pursuit of progressive ideals. His work delves into complex narratives, employing art as a powerful tool to navigate intricate dimensions of existence, particularly emphasizing underrepresented stories, and promoting inclusivity.

Online info ↗

Running time: 100 minutes

Booking:

Hadas Balas, Project Manager,
The Cameri Theatre of Tel Aviv
hadasb@cameri.co.il

Set: Uri Zamir

Lighting and objects: Yair Vardi

Dramaturgy: Nataly Zukerman

Cast: Maya Landsman, Yael Mor, Hila Gluskinos, Gil Shachar, Alon Sandler, Jason Danino Holt